STRABAN PAVING TO START SOON

Highway Department will Proceed at Once with County Contract.

MUST SECURE RELEASES

County Commissioners are Responsible for Damages to Property Owners Along Proposed Road.

Construction work on the five mile stretch of State Highway to be built in Straban township will be commenced immediately. This fact was announced in a letter just received by the Adams County Commissioners from State Highway Commissioner Lewis S. Sadler.

The County Commissioners are given instructions as to how to proceed in securing releases from the property owners along the road. The State Commissioner explains the responsibility for damage to the abutting properties rests with County Commissioners.

Other details in connection with the proposed highway are contained in the letter of Commissioner Sadler which follows:

"As you are no doubt aware this department has awarded a contract for the construction of section of State Highway Route No. 123 in Straban township, Adams County. No releases have been secured by this department from the property owners along this section and this is therefore to notify you, that in accordance with the act of Assembly approved July 18, 1917 relative to the assessment and payment of damages to the owners of properties abutting on State Highways and providing for the payment of such damages by such counties, the responsibility for any damage to the properties along this section of the road rests with your board of County Commissioners.

"Plans showing the proposed construction, together with a number of blank forms of release which can be used by your board in this connection if you so desire, have been forwarded under separate cover.

"It is the intention of this department to proceed with this work at once."

The contract for the Straban road was awarded to M. Bennett and Sons, of Indiana, on March 20. This firm's bid, $182,229.50, was the lowest figure quoted by the many large contractors who were after the job. While members of the firm have looked over the roadway yet there is no evidence here that the work will be commenced immediately.

ACROSS ATLANTIC FOR FIVE TRIPS

Claire Sowers Encountered Submarines and Hurricane During Sea Career.

HELD UNIQUE POSITION

Was Attached to Army Service but Engaged in Sea Duty. Had Heavy Responsibility.

Five round trips across the Atlantic and one voyage from Newport News, Virginia, to New Orleans, is the sea record of Claire Sowers, of McKnightstown, who was discharged from the Army Transport Service one week ago.

Sowers crossed the Atlantic seven times during time of war and his ship the "Erny" was frequently subjected to submarine scares. On one occasion they engaged in battle with a German U-boat and fired several shots at the undersea craft but the "Erny" gunners were not quite accurate enough to register a hit.

It was the misfortune of the "Erny" to run into rough weather on many occasions and on November 13th when she was a few days out of Bordeaux, France, she weathered a hurricane which sprung up in five minutes.

The executive officer of the ship who had been to sea for over twenty years said that the wind was blowing at least one hundred and fifteen miles an hour and the way the "Erny" dipped and rolled at angles of thirty five and forty degrees realistically confirmed his statement.

Life boats, loose material on the deck and lines holding the smoke stack went overboard. Seas swept over the bridge forty feet above the water line and fortune alone prevented the smoke stack from toppling over the side which would have allowed water to extinguish the fires and probably burst the boilers.

In about two hours the hurricane abated and the "Erny" proceeded on her way still aloft but greatly battered from a storm of such fury that can be experienced only at sea.

Claire Sowers graduated from Gettysburg High School in 1913 and entered college here with the class of 1917. He left college during his junior year to accept a position in the Citizens Trust Company.

In January of last year he went to Newport News and entered the Army Transport Service and was soon sent on board the transport "Erny" as Quartermaster Agent of the United States Army where Lieutenant Stoney, another former Gettysburg student, was also acting as an army agent.

Besides traveling more miles on the sea than probably any other Adams County boy who enlisted after the declaration of war, Sowers held a rank which few persons in this section of the state possessed.

He was a member of the army but engaged in sea duty and no other officer on the ship, excepting the captain, ranked above him. He handled all army business which was transacted on the "Erny" and was virtually independent of the ship officers' orders.

CAUSED ARREST; THEN PAID FINE

Town Boy Accused of Stealing Watch of McSherrystown Girl.

To cause his arrest for the supposed stealing of a gold watch and then later to pay the costs of his hearing was what the mother of Lucy Storm, of McSherrystown, did in the case of Russell Gulden, of Railroad street, Gettysburg.

Before Christmas Lucy Storm visited at the Gulden residence here and when she left gave Russell Gulden a gold watch to keep as a remembrance of her.

One day Gulden became pressed for funds and pawned this watch for two dollars. On her next visit to Gettysburg Lucy Storm asked Gulden where the watch was and he told her that it had been pawned.

Upon returning to McSherrystown Miss Storm informed her mother that Gulden no longer was in possession of the watch and her mother, it is said, accused Gulden of theft and phoned the state police here to arrest the boy at once.

State Constable Shaver took Gulden to the jail here for about an hour until he procured an automobile to haul the boy to McSherrystown to appear before Magistrate Rice for a hearing.

When the mother of Miss Storm heard Gulden's side of the story and saw the watch, which had been repurchased for five dollars, she regretted her action and paid five dollars of Gulden's eight dollar costs.

CHANGE MAIL ROUTE

No Trucks from Gettysburg to Baltimore or Washington.

The mail route covered by the large U. S. mail truck from Washington to Gettysburg and return has been changed by an order of the post office department.

As a result there are no trucks running between here and Washington and here and Baltimore.

Instead of making the round trip over the same road, the truck will traverse new territory. Leaving Washington at 5:30 a. m., it comes by way of Frederick to Thurmont.

The next stop is Emmitsburg. The truck then goes to Taneytown, Littlestown, Westminster, Baltimore to Washington, thus making a loop. The length of the route is 174.6 miles.

If any mail is to go by truck from Gettysburg to Baltimore or Washington it is put on the Lancaster machine and transferred at Littlestown.

RED CROSS FINDS LOST SOLDIER

Biglerville Boy is Located in Virginia Naval Hospital.

RESULT OF HOME SERVICE

Branch of Local Chapter. Fairfield Soldier Sent to Colorado for his Health. Many Others Helped.

The Biglerville soldier, who mysteriously disappeared after he was discharged from the army several months ago, has been located by the Gettysburg Red Cross chapter in the Naval Hospital at Norfolk, Virginia. Word to this effect has been received by the chapter secretary.

The discovery of the boy, who was severely wounded in the fierce fighting in France, was made by the Red Cross in a systematic search, started by the local chapter. The case reveals the broad field which is open to the Gettysburg Red Cross Home Service branch of the work.

Another example of the excellent service being rendered to returned soldiers is shown in the case of a Fairfield man. This soldier, the Red Cross women discovered, was suffering from tuberculosis, and had been discharged from the army. The matter was taken up with the government and with the aid of the local chapter a good sized allowance was awarded to him by the War Department.

Not satisfied with the good work already done, the Red Cross assisted financially in sending the sick boy to the mountains of Colorado for his health. They immediately notified the Red Cross chapter, located near the town where the Fairfield soldier will reside, of his coming. The Colorado women will look after him and see that he is properly cared for.

There are many cases of a private nature that are being helped every day. And the unusual part about the work is that few people except those directly concerned, are aware of the excellent service which is being rendered by the Gettysburg chapter.

STATE GAVE MANY TO NATION'S ARMY

Final Statistics Show Over 300,000 in Service. County Furnished its Share.

In statistics just compiled by Major W. G. Murdock, the State's chief draft officer, it is shown that Adams county inducted 650 men into the service. Of this number 572 men were accepted by the army physicians for service. Of the men accepted by the local draft board only 9:35 per cent were turned down at camp. The record made by the doctors of the Gettysburg board compares favorably with the work of any board in the state.

The figures also show that of the 225,976 Pennsylvanians drafted for war service under the selective service act, 203,416 were accepted for duty in the army and navy. There were 281 draft boards in the state and each one has sent its final figures to the state selective service office. From these records it is calculated that the percentage of rejections at army camps or stations was 8.65. These figures include 3,303 men rejected on November 11, on account of the signing of the armistice.

Percentages of rejections range from 1.88 in Bucks county to 16.58 in Luzerne. It is estimated at Harrisburg, that including the National Guard of Pennsylvania, which became the 28th Division and the enlistments from the Keystone State in the regular army, navy and marine corps that the Commonwealth furnished over 300,000 men to the Nation for the war.

AUTO HITS LOG, FOUR INJURED

One Thrown Through Wind Shield as Car Turns Over.

One man suffered a fracture of the skull and three others of the party were seriously injured when a large touring car containing a party of young men from Mannheim, Lancaster County, struck a log on the Baltimore pike between here and Littlestown at three o'clock this morning. The machine was turned over on its side and the top torn off.

One of the men was thrown through the wind shield and severely injured, other members of the party were badly bruised and cut. They were able to drive the car to Gettysburg where a physician was called. He advised them to get the man who had been thrown through the wind shield to the York Hospital as soon as possible.

Although the occupants of the car were somewhat dazed and were not sure about the details of the accident they were able to proceed to York after they had been patched up by the physician.

STOCK REPORT

Rails Lag While Specialties Rocket at Market Opening.

(By Associated Press) New York, April 7—Traders evidently were disposed to place a favorable interpretation on events over the week-end especially the reported progress toward an agreement on the peace treaty and prices at the opening of the stock exchange to-day rose accordingly.

Rails were the only important stock to lag in the further advance which promised to carry the day's total well above one million shares. Some specialties achieved the highest quotations of recent years and many were at top level for the movement.

Conspicuous features included the American International corporation, motor and affiliated equipment, high and low priced oils, American sugar, Cuba cane sugar, leather preferred, and industrial alcohol at the extreme gain of one to almost five points.

A number of independent operators which had been on a three day schedule also will be kept going the entire week.

Operators say this action is due to the action of Governor Sproul in sustaining the prospective advance of ten cents a ton in the price schedule starting May 1 to continue for five months.

HAGERSTOWN MAY BUILD PLANES

Pressed Steel Plant to be Used for Construction of Light Aircraft.

NEW MACHINE IS TESTED

Will Weigh Only Four Hundred Pounds. Small Wing Spread and Speed of 70 Miles an Hour.

According to statements made by the Poole Engineering Company, of Baltimore, the American Steel Company, of Hagerstown, will soon be manufacturing "baby" airplanes.

Plans are under way by the officials of the Poole Engineering Company to convert their Hagerstown plant—the Maryland Pressed Steel Company—into an airplane factory where machines for sport, pleasure and commercial users are to be made. If this is done Maryland will have an airplane factory that will compare favorably with any in the country.

The company has demonstrated its ability to manufacture airplanes. Under the supervision of Aeronautical Engineer Bellanca, its expert on planes, it has turned out a "boat" as airplanes are known in aeronautical circles, weighing but 400 pounds and with such a small wing spread that it can safely alight in a country road.

Its horsepower is small, the engine an Italian type, generating only 35 horsepower, but the little machine has a great lifting power per pound of its own weight than any machine now existing, it is declared.

Capable of making 70 miles an hour, the machine has been tested out by several successful flights and is now a proved craft of known capacity and qualifications.

The cost of making the machines in quantities has not been disclosed, and as the company has not undertaken their manufacture on a large scale, the capacity of its plan has not been learned. But it is safe to say that machines aptly will be turned out should the company put through its project.

If these small pleasure and sport aircraft are manufactured in Maryland this, it is believed, will ultimately have effect on the roads system, for it has been suggested that in the construction of new concrete highways, the roads, engineers should at regular intervals widen the roadway by adding a concrete landing stage.

These stages could be marked with a black cross or other striking emblem so that airmen flying over the state could land without difficulty.

TRAINMEN GIVEN WAGE INCREASE

Hines Meets Brotherhood Leaders and Orders will Follow.

RESTORE FORMER SCALE

Few Rates Lowered, but General Level is Raised. Plea for Overtime Pay Refused.

(By Associated Press) Washington, April 7—Wage advances to be given members of the four leading trainmen and engineers brotherhoods were discussed finally by Director General Hines and the chiefs of the brotherhoods and the order probably will be issued within a few days.

The order will readjust wages so as to restore most of the differentials between various classes of employees existing before January 1, 1915. These wage relations were disrupted by the general wage increase granted last year. A few rates will be lowered but the general level will be raised. It was reported at the conference that the brotherhood's application for time and a half pay for over time had not been granted.

(By Associated Press) Washington, April 7—Orders have been given the United States transport "George Washington" to proceed from America for Brest. They are not to be taken to mean that President Wilson is planning a premature departure from France.

They are thought rather to reflect a belief that the Peace Conference will be able to make an adjustment of outstanding problems at a comparatively early date.

PEACE ASSURED BY EASTER TIME

Delegates are in Full Accord.
Experts are Causing Delay.

DETAILS CAUSE TROUBLE

Germany Must Pay up to Last Farthing. Belgium and France Come First.

Paris, April 7.—The confident statement of Premier Lloyd George that the peace treaty will be concluded by Easter is supported by predictions repeatedly made by less prominent members of the Peace Conference, and dispelled Sunday much of the hopelessness and uncertainty in which many important problems of the conference seemed to have been enshrouded.

Even the announcement of serious Bolshevik troubles in Bavaria and the danger of a break with Italy over the Adriatic problem apparently did not affect the optimism Sunday of the leaders of the British, French and American delegations.

All Paris seemed imbued Sunday with the idea that Easter will find the conference ended, either successfully or unsuccessfully, and many newspapers and leaders who have been doubtful about the successful outcome are apparently less gloomy about the prospect.

The sunshine weather for the last four days has undoubtedly made a considerable change in the psychology of the conference, the members of which have greatly distressed by a month of rain and cloudiness.

The premiers held no formal meetings Sunday, but there were several informal conferences. Colonel House received Premier Orlando, Lord Robert Cecil and Baron Makino and conferred with them on the location of the seat of the League of Nations.

M. Paderewski, the Polish premier, called on Colonel House at the Hotel De Crillon, but Colonel House was at the time attending a conference of the American delegates with President Wilson.

In answer to a remark that what troubled public opinion was not so much the delay, as the secrecy in which the peace negotiations were wrapped and the fear that there was some divergence of opinion, the British Premier said:

"I affirm absolutely that there is no divergence among the negotiators. They are often confronted with technical difficulties which can only be settled after close study. Take the question of reparations. In substance the Allies have one common principle, which I once set forth thus: 'Germany must pay up to the last farthing of her power.'"

Troublesome Questions

"But is it sufficient to draw up a bill and hand it to the enemy? Must we not require guarantees and must we not study the terms, methods and forms of delayed payments? Must we not be able to say to our adversary when he pleads inadequacy of resources: 'Yes you can go as far as that and you must do this and you must do that.' In a word, shall we simply present a bill or collect the money, all the money possible? Well, that is where the work comes in, slow and difficult work complicated by the fact that technical experts of the highest capabilities and great experiences are not in agreement among themselves either as to the method of liquidation or as to the assets to be realized."

WILSON PREPARES FOR HOME TRIP

President will Leave France as Soon as Treaty is Signed.

Washington, April 7.—Pres. Wilson is getting ready to leave Paris. A cable from Paris says that he has sent a message to the Navy Department asking that the George Washington be made ready and inquiring when she can get across. Navy Department officials say that no such message has come to the department, although it might have gone direct to Acting Secretary Roosevelt, who is now in New York. One theory advanced is that the President will no longer tolerate the delays in the peace negotiations, and he wants to be ready to leave promptly in case the proceedings come to an impasse.

On the other hand, it is more probable that the treaty will be ready within the next two weeks, and that the President is making preparations to depart without delay.

The George Washington is now in Hoboken and is scheduled to sail from that port on April 15, which would bring her to France about Easter. It was also reported that the President intended calling Congress into special session on May 5, at which time the treaty is expected to be ready for the consideration of the Senate.

SOCIALISTS FILL PARIS STREETS

Protest Against Acquittal of Assassin. Anarchists Unfold Black Flag.

Paris, April 7.—There were cries of "Long Live the Soviets," "Down With War!" and "Down With the Peace Conference!" at the huge demonstration organized by the Federation of Labor and the Socialist party in protest Sunday against the acquittal of Raoul Villain, the assassin of Jean Jaures, the Socialist leader, and in honor of the memory of M. Jaures.

A group of anarchists unfurled a black flag on Avenue Henri Martin in spite of police orders. The police charged the anarchists, five of whom were injured. No arrests were made. Comparative order prevailed throughout the parade, but as the procession moved along the various avenues Malakoff, Henri Martin, Victor Hugo Place and the Trocadero—and through the district in the most aristocratic part of Paris, in which M. Jaures had lived, there was a feeling of walking over a mined road, where the merest incident might bring about an explosion.

Hardly had the procession started than the "Internationale" was heard on all sides. The police looked on apathetically. The correspondent joined in the procession behind the red banner bearing the initials of the Federation of Republican Veterans, Emile Vandervelde, Belgian minister of justice and the French Socialist Deputies Marcel Cachin, Victor Dalbiez, Marcel Sembat and Jean Longuet and Hjalmar Branting, the Swedish Socialist leader, headed the parade, which passed through the streets amid suppressed excitement and subdued cheering.

When the head of the procession reached the home of Jaures, M. Sembat and the other deputies entered the house. They presented Mme. Jaures and Mlle. Jaures with a palm and a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Mme. Jaures was visibly affected. She was unable to reply to the words addressed to her, and merely raised her handkerchief to her eyes, which were wet with tears, and sobbed.

Joseph Bonnet, of Paris, one of the world's great organists, will give a recital Tuesday evening, April 22, at the First Presbyterian church in York.

Rarely in the past has an organist of the calibre of Bonnet played in that city. Some years ago, Clarence Eddy, the well-known American virtuoso, gave several recitals in York at St. Paul's Lutheran church. Mr. Eddy came to York to visit relatives and it was through them he was secured to play.

CHINA IN PEACE LIMELIGHT NOW

Wants Japan's Demands Nullified. Says Treaties of 1915 Should be Cancelled.

OBJECTS TO JAP TERMS

Says Provisions were Forced Upon her at Point of Bayonet. China is Well Informed on Situation.

Paris, April 7.—Nullification of the 21 demands made by Japan early in 1915 is urged by the Chinese Government in a statement cabled from Peking and received by the Japanese peace delegation to-day.

The Peking statement declares that the Japanese treaties and notes forced upon China in 1915 should be abrogated "because their terms are incompatible with the principles upon which the League of Nations is founded." The statement is largely a reply to a recent statement made by Baron Makino, of the Japanese delegation, on the position of Japan.

"Since the Japanese delegate in Paris," the Chinese statement says, "has pointedly referred to the 21 demands. It is incumbent upon the Chinese government to draw attention to the fact that China's acquiescence to terms subversive of her own interests were secured by means of an ultimatum to which she was forced to surrender because of the preoccupation of the rest of the world in the European war. It is a fact that the terms were imposed upon China at the point of the bayonet, the example followed being that of Prussia; the extension to 99 years of the lease of Port Arthur and South Manchurian Railways concessions being precisely the German Shantung terms."

"In a subsequent agreement secured by Japan under the former cabinet the principles followed have been equally dangerous, not only to China's liberty of action, but to her very independence."

The statement says that the claim of Japan to special privileges because the Japanese expelled the Germans from Shantung contravenes oddly with the failure of the Americans to claim the railways and mines of France, although the Germans were expelled from Alsace and Lorraine by the co-operation of the American Army. It says that the American Army of 2,000,000 lost more than 60 times the number of lives that Japan claims she lost at Tsing-Tao. The statement also comments on the fact that England is not asking Belgium for a single concession, although Flanders "is one vast cemetery where English soldiers are buried."

Improved modern news distribution in China, the statement continues, keeps the Chinese fully advised of daily happenings throughout the world and "irredendism is already raising its head, not only in Korea, but throughout Manchuria and Shantung as well, foreign issues occupying almost exclusive attention to the detriment of domestic advancement."

DETAILS OF THE TRIAL OF COTTIN

Assassin of Clemenceau Given
Death Penalty. Accused
French Government.

Paris, April 7.—Cottin, the would-be assassin of Premier Clemenceau, who was tried before a court-martial, presided over by Colonel Hyvart, was given the death penalty, as was briefly reported by cable. Captain Mornet prosecuted and Maitre Bloch defended the misguided youth. There was barely standing room in court.

The indictment charged that the deed had been premeditated and that Cottin was imbued with anarchistic ideas, even was proud of his deed, showing no remorse. Expert medical opinion had decided that the accused was fully responsible for his actions. On the witness stand Cottin declared that he was not proud of his deed. He left pride to conquerors. If he had escaped he would have continued to read the newspapers of his party and would have tried the same thing over again in case he had thought fit to do so.

The Premier's physician, Dr. Paul, declared that in addition to the bullet which struck M. Clemenceau, another pierced his fur coat and his morning coat as well, while two more pierced his fur coat only.

The man, who kept the lodging house where Cottin had lived, stated that the accused had been well behaved and sober. Evidence was given by some of Cottin's fellow-workmen, and particularly by one Jager, to whom Cottin had said, "You will see that I am no coward. I shall prove soon that I am a man."

The Criminal's Defense

In his speech for the prosecution Captain Mornet began by paying tribute to the great citizen who nearly fell a victim to an assassin's bullets. He referred to the emotion which had thrilled the civilized world at the news of this crime against the French nation. There can be no extenuating circumstances in such a crime, the captain declared in a ringing tone of voice, and he wound up by asking for the death penalty.

STEALS CAR WITH OWNER

New Oxford Man in Car when Thief Drove Off.

When a thief endeavored to steal an automobile, belonging to a farmer, which was standing on a Hanover street Saturday night, he did not count on going off with the owner, Charles Libbey, New Oxford, as a passenger. This was the case, however, as the farmer was asleep on the rear seat. When the machine started off he awoke and was surprised to see a stranger at the wheel. As soon as the would-be thief learned that he had company, he jumped from the machine without endeavoring to bring it to a stop. Before the owner could get to the wheel, it had collided with another automobile. Neither machine was badly damaged, but in the meantime, the stranger made his escape. Chief Crabs was at once notified, but as yet has not located the man.

About Roller Skates.

Roller skates were patented and used in France as early as 1819. A few years later an Englishman named Syers patented them and manufactured them in London. Syers' skate consisted of a sandal mounted on five narrow wheels in a single row, so arranged, however, that only two of them could touch the floor at the same time. Several other similar skates were patented in England during the next 40 years.

Putting It Plainly.

A judge, whose personal appearance was as unimpressive as his legal knowledge was profound, interrupted a female witness. "Humbugged you, my good woman?" said he. "What do you mean by that?" "Well, my lord," said the witness, "I can't explain it exactly, but if a girl called your lordship a handsome man she would be humbugging you!"

First United States Currency.

Immediately after the battle of Bunker Hill $2,000,000 in American currency was issued, and by 1779 the amount had grown to $241,000,000, and the various states had issued nearly as much. In 1792 the mint at Philadelphia was established. Thus the use of American money gradually supplanted the foreign.

79TH TO DISBAND AT CAMP MEADE

Division May be Selected to Take Part in Victory Parade
at Washington.

According to reports issued at Camp Meade Saturday, hundreds of soldiers from Adams county and other parts of Pennsylvania in the famous 79th Division will demobilize at Meade where they were trained and organized for the splendid part they played in winning the war.

While many of these boys fell and a number are in hospitals and still others invalided home, the several units will return strong in numbers with the men in good shape.

It is also possible that the 79th will be selected by Secretary Baker to take part in the proposed great Victory parade in Washington, probably on July 4th. It is proposed to give a magnificent welcome to the members of the Wildcat Division, the same as will be given the 28th Pennsylvania National Guards when they parade in Philadelphia in a few weeks.

ARENDTSTVILLE

Arendtville—On the first of April about an inch of snow was on the ground, which put a damper on garden making.

Miss Addie Lupp, of Heidelsburg, is the guest in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. David Nary. Mrs. Charles Frey, of Fountandale, spent several days recently in the home of James L. Taylor.

J. Andrew Kane is remodeling his house in this place which he purchased from the Henry Smelser estate. His son, Raymond, will occupy the house when it is repaired.

H. K. Raffensperger has moved to one of Harry Bluebaugh's farms in Butler township. His brother, W. Arnold Raffensperger, will continue the restaurant business, formerly conducted by him.

The following flittings took place in our town recently: John F. Powell to the town hall which has been converted into a dwelling house; Ernest Carey, of Franklin township, to the house vacated by John F. Powell; John C. Taylor from Centre Mills into Augustus Orner's house. Owing to the shortage of houses there was very little moving in our town.

APPLE CROP IN DANGER

Insects are Destroying Buds in Washington County.

Washington county's apple crop is threatened with failure unless orchardists take particular care to destroy an insect known as the aphid, which is playing general havoc with apple buds in the Hagerstown vicinity this spring. This statement was made by one of the largest apple growers of that county. This grower stated that many orchardists in Washington county have talked with him about this insect and the destruction it is doing, especially to the young apple trees.

The aphid is one of the most deadly enemies of the apple trees, attacking the young sprouts and buds. The aphid works in conjunction with ants the latter making them their slaves. The aphid in devouring the buds and tender sprouts, forms a honey, upon which the ants thrive.

MOTHER SURPRISES U. S. MEN

She Is From Essen, But Her Son Is in American Army in Germany.

Coblenz, Germany.—Mrs. Martha Greeff arrived here recently and presented credentials at army headquarters explaining that she wanted to see her son, and for this reason had made the journey from her home in Essen. American officers explained to her that the only German soldiers within the occupied zone were those on special duty in connection with the turning over to the American army property of the German army, and that Roland Greeff's name did not appear on the list of these men.

"Apparently you misunderstood me," said Mrs. Greeff to an American who spoke German. "My son is in company B, 11th Infantry, United States army, which will soon be stationed in the region of Treves."

Permission for Mrs. Greeff to visit her son will be granted by headquarters.

Not Up to Expectations.

Jane has often envied her small playmate who has a baby brother and she frequently expressed a wish for a wee brother, too. When her wish came true she was happily excited until she had seen him. Auntie noticed her disappointment and asked Jane if she was proud of the new baby. Wistfully the child answered: "I guess I is, but I think he is a size or so too small."

Necessity Makes Prosperity.

A people never fairly begins to prosper till necessity is treading on its heels. The growing want of room is one of the sources of civilization. Population is power, but it must be a population that, in growing, is made daily apprehensive of the morrow.—Simms.

CIDER HAD A KICK

Over Five Per Cent Found in Apple Product.

Six samples of "cider," classed as apple, sweet and grape, taken by agents of Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust during March, were found to be so charged with alcohol as to be rated as "intoxicating." One alleged "sweet cider" contained 5.75 per cent of alcohol by volume and another 4.77 per cent. This latter also contained salicylic acid. These samples were taken in western counties and arrests were made.

The food agents also prosecuted four sealers for selling "pops" of various flavors which contained artificial colors and flavors. In all seventy eight arrests were made in March for violations of the food law, foods unfit for use, sausage and hamburger steaks containing too much water, thirteen cases of butter overloaded with water and milk and cream too low in butter fat or otherwise failing to meet State law requirements furnishing the bases of suits. There were forty one milk and cream cases.

The dairy and food division turned in $4,183.51 revenue during March, of which $3,358.51 came from licenses for the sale of oleomargarine. The total receipts of the division since January 1 were $489,751.23. In that period no less than 4,723 licenses for the sale of "oleo" were issued, all but 180 of them being for retail establishments.

As Hassler was to have been one of the leading actors in the "Ladies Minstrel Show" at Bank Hall, Saturday night, the performance had to be postponed until Saturday, April 12.

FOREIGN-BORN LEAD IN LOAN DRIVE

Section of a Group of Foreign-Language Representatives Who Met in Philadelphia to Boost the Victory Liberty Loan.

Foreign-born citizens of the Third Federal Reserve District won the distinction of being the first group of the new Victory Liberty Loan organization to start work when they launched their campaign in Philadelphia on Tuesday, March 4.

Representatives of nineteen different nationalities, comprising the sub-committee chairmen of the Foreign Language Division, attended and made suggestions for the conduct of the Victory Liberty Loan campaign. In line with the plans of the general committee, this is to be handled on a more intensive scale than any of the four previous loans. In the absence of Judge Joseph Buffington, Chairman, Cassimir A. Sienkiewicz, Executive Secretary, presided.

An outline of the new organization was given by A. E. Berry, associate director of the War Loan Organization for the Third Federal Reserve District.

"In the security to be offered in the Victory Liberty Loan," he said, "the chief difference from other loans is that instead of offering bonds that mature in fifteen years, the government will offer notes which it will agree to repay in one, two, three, four or five years."

To illustrate his point, Mr. Berry said the securities about to be offered are more like currency, which is payable on demand. He also emphasized that one never dreams of selling a dollar at less than its face value.

"Security men who know what they are talking about say there are hardly any securities on the market that give a better net return than government bonds," he said. "The notes, because of the new tax conditions under which they will be sold, will give a better net return than anything else."

He likened the members of the Foreign Language Division to trustees for the government in their mission of explaining the Victory Liberty Loan to foreign-born people.

E. McLain Watters, Chairman of the Advisory Committee for Pennsylvania of the War Loan Organization, said that foreign-born people of the Third

Federal Reserve District made enviable records in the four preceding Liberty Loan campaigns. He predicted that they will do even better in the Victory Liberty Loan.

"Loan subscribers are scattered in some states," said Mr. Watters, "but in Pennsylvania about every third person, whether man, woman or child, is a holder of Liberty Bonds."

Former Governor Edwin S. Stuart paid a tribute to the foreign-born when he said that the people who helped to build America were those who came as immigrants and became good American citizens.

"We are called upon now to pay for what victory is to do for all of us in the years to come," he said. "We are to pay our debt not only for ourselves, but also to make all the peoples of the earth free to live and worship God according to the dictates of their consciences."

In introducing the chairmen of the various racial sub-committees, Mr. Sienkiewicz asked all the committee-men to begin at once an active campaign against swindlers who are circulating among small bond holders reports that the bonds are worthless.

"This condition is particularly bad in the mining regions," said Mr. Sienkiewicz, "and, of course, the men who are growing rich out of it find a fertile field for their work among the foreign-born, chiefly those who cannot speak English. They are buying at tremendous discounts not only bonds of the first four loans, but also War Savings and Thrift Stamps. We can do a great deal to block this if we will write and urge all our friends of foreign birth to write to their relatives and friends in other parts of the state, advising them that government bonds are as good as money in the bank and warning them against the swindlers."

Races represented in the Foreign Language Division are Albanian, Armenian, Chinese, Czech-Slovak, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Lettish, Lithuanian, Polish, Roumanian, Russian, Scandinavian, Serbian, Syrian, Ukrainian.

BRITISH TARS TO DIVIDE MILLIONS

Big Prize Fund of Admiralty Recalls W. W. Jacobs' "Many Cargoes."

ODD THINGS ARE SEIZED

Naval Marshal Tells About Inroads on Foe's Shipping During the War—Goods Sold Bring in $70,000,000—250 Ships Taken.

London.—When W. W. Jacobs wrote "Many Cargoes" he had no notion his idea was to be plagiarized, and plagiarized by a great naval war at that. But wars—like women—have strange ways. And not the least strange of them is the working of the department of the British marshal of the admiralty and prize court.

In time of history it was the duty of this high-ranking dignitary to arrange for and attend the execution of prisoners sentenced to death for murder on the high seas. And it is on record that the marshal of the olden time attended the execution of Admiral Byng—a British commander, who was shot on his own quarterdeck, as a penalty for losing a battle. Times have changed. The modern marshal is only a milk and water edition of his sterner prototype. He is the watchman, stevedore, caretaker and guardian angel in chief of all German shipping that has fallen into allied hands during the war, and incidentally, of the British naval prize fund, of which thousands of British jack tars and their officers are now awaiting their share.

The "Many Cargoes" to be divided vary from a priceless emerald to a tin kettle. The gross proceeds of the sale of ships' goods, the marshal told a New York Sun reporter, amounted to $70,000,000, but this included goods seized under the blockade, which must be held pending the conclusion of peace. It was not possible to say what the amount of the prize fund would be. There was plenty of work for the prize court.

250 Ships Seized During War.

"The president (Lord Phillimore) has sat every day since he was appointed, and there would appear to be quite another year's work before the court," said the marshal. "Including vessels seized in port upon the outbreak of war, which numbered over 100, about 250 ships have gone into my custody in the United Kingdom. Comparatively speaking, quite a small number of ships have been sold. The majority have been requisitioned by the government."

"Hundreds of thousands of tons of goods of all descriptions—copper, aluminum, metals, wool, cotton, lard, oils and fats, coffee, cocoa, dried fruits, wheat, barley, hides, leather, tobacco, nitrates, zinc concentrates, diamonds, pearls, human hair, false teeth and many other things—all are among the prize captures."

Producing two catalogues, the marshal remarked: "From these you can gain a good idea of the various classes of goods seized in the letters and parcels mails, from precious stones to frying pans, printing paper, pottery, transfers, boots and shoes, boys' and men's clothes and women's underclothing."

Alluding to the quantities of bonds and securities captured, he said the interception of these securities proved a powerful lever in British hands, causing serious interruption of German trade and damage to German credit.

Amusing Incident.

"An amusing incident," said the marshal, "happened in the earliest days of the war, when upon a large enemy vessel, brought in by the navy, some alligators were found. The officer of customs at the outpost in advising me of the seizure appeared to be very nervous of their presence. Some he thought were dead, because their eyes were shut, and some were too much alive."

"The zoological society not being anxious to have them they were sold to a buyer who subsequently toured the provinces, exhibiting them as 'prize' alligators."

"Eighteen months later the owner appeared in the prize proceedings and obtained a release of the proceeds of sale only. He appeared astonished to find that they had been sold. I don't know," said the marshal, "how he expected me to feed and look after the animals for eighteen months. I heard that he expressed himself very forcibly to the innocent purchaser."

The seized goods have proved useful, in some cases stimulating British manufacturing and trade. A museum of samples of the goods seized is to be taken round the provinces, so that manufacturers may see the class and style of goods the Germans were manufacturing and for what market, some of the goods being of excellent class.

Mexican Oil Production.

Mexico City—Mexico produced in 1918 a total of 58,156,239 barrels of petroleum, according to official announcement, which adds that this is only a fraction of the potential production of the fields.

The daily potential production is estimated at 1,422,626 barrels.

BIGGER NAVY BOON TO LABOR

Secretary Daniels Sees Shipyards Busy For Months.

(Another incentive for the public, particularly the wage-earner, to make a success of the Victory Liberty Loan is found in these remarks of Secretary of the Navy Daniels. The naval expansion favored by Mr. Daniels and the prospective labor boom are industrial developments that will be aided by the new loan.)

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

During the war the business of the Navy Department expanded, but the end of the war will not see us go back to the small navy which we had when the war began. The pending bill in Congress carries, and any bill that passes must carry, for the president and future needs of the navy, a five-fold increase of navy personnel and naval expenditure over that which prevailed in the early part of 1917.

This means, of course, that we shall not return, in employment of labor, in the repair of our ships, in the construction of our ships already authorized, or any other agencies of a peace navy, to the conditions of two years ago. In 1917, or the early part of it, 33,000 skilled men were employed in our navy yards. When the armistice was signed, there were employed 86,000, and today 92,000. We are employing more men in the navy yards today than at any time during the war, and necessarily so.

You may ask why is this, with the end of the war. There are three reasons. The first is the imperative necessity of repairing and altering and equipping and keeping in repair for constant service the older types of battleships and cruisers which we are employing to bring soldiers back from France. Not only that, we have fitted out and helped to keep in repair scores of transports of the army and the Shipping Board. Ships have returned with many accidents, minor, to be sure, and this has imposed a heavy burden upon the navy yards in keeping their ships in repair.

When the war began there was a lack of enough ships of smaller capacity in the navy to engage in the new warfare against submarines, and we took over yachts and all kinds of small craft with the contract that, at the end of the war, we would return them to their owners in the same condition as we received them. We had to make changes in these ships, and they have had a rigorous service, and that is a large work which, for months, will give employment to skilled men.

With all speed, we are completing the ships already begun, and beginning work on those authorized by the last Congress. So that with the navy, for the next few months, there will be no unemployment, and the men who are skilled in shipbuilding have jobs at their hand at high wages, and we are enabled, by these reasons, to tide over the days before normal conditions will return.

When the armistice was signed there was a drastic necessity to annul contracts or to make such readjustments as would save many millions of dollars. At the same time there was the compulsion upon us, the strongest in America today, that every returning soldier should have his job when he came back home. And in the naval service we have seen to it that every man who left our service at navy yards or stations to go into the war should have his job when he came back; and then there was the compulsion not to discharge men who had rendered faithful service in the war. And how have we done this?

We have sought to give naval work so it will be a stop-gap in the months before normal conditions shall return. For example, we have in these last few days made it possible for every manufacturer in America with a small machine shop to bid on contracts for the small parts of torpedoes. We will assemble them, and instead of giving a contract to a manufacturer of torpedoes—all of them to a single concern, we are making it possible for any small machine shop in the country to make a part of these torpedoes, assembling them in our new plants. So, in other ways, we are giving work to small factories and keeping the work going.

Now the duty comes to us in these days of transition for State governments to enter upon the work of public improvements; for city governments and for county governments, so that employment may come to labor until conditions in individual enterprises make a demand for labor.

I am not one of those who have fear of the future employment of labor. I am one of those who believe that as soon as we tide over the present conditions the demands of the world for what America makes will be so great that, with ships to carry our products, there will be abundant labor for every man in America who wishes to work. As soon as the terms of peace are signed and the country of Belgium and that portion of France which was devastated, begin their work of rebuilding, there will be demand for almost everything that America makes, and he is the wise business man who, with vision, is getting ready to supply that demand.

Artificial Eyes.

During the year 1840 Professor Boissoneau of France created what could honestly be called an eye that was human in appearance. The method of manufacturing was practically the same as that employed at the present time, with the exception that in the intervening years great improvements have been made in imitating the colors, that are almost lifelike in their effect. Besides, many improvements have been made in the shapes, which are practically molded to conform to the socket and fill all the available space.

Electricity on the Farm.

Electricity is now equal to nearly all kinds of farm work, from irrigation to churning. So far it has not attacked plowing and cultivating, but electricity is not yet through with the farm.

Salt Superstitions.

Superstitions concerning salt are among the earliest known to mankind. There is much evidence in holy writ for the ceremonial uses of it, and the old Moslems' law commands that every sacrifice of a meat offering shall be seasoned with it. Homer calls it divine, and many of the old Teutons races looked on salt springs as holy and worshiped at them. The origin of this superstition seems to be that since salt cannot corrupt it should be regarded as a symbol of immortality.

BEST OF CARE FOR SICK SOLDIERS

Will Provide for Needs of Nation's Defenders. Many Institutions Available.

Washington, D. C., April 7—An extensive program of caring for disabled soldiers after their discharge from military service was announced Saturday by the War Risk Insurance Bureau, which is charged by Congress with this work. Twenty-one hospitals, with a capacity of 1500 beds, already are in use, and the War Department has turned over to the Treasury seven camp hospitals for care of disability cases. These are to be enlarged and improved out of the $9,000,000 fund appropriated for hospitals for disabled soldiers to be controlled by the War Risk Insurance Bureau and conducted by the Public Health Service, another Treasury agency.

When treatment in the hospitals of the War Department fails to restore men to such condition that they are fit for active service and they are discharged, the work of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance begins.

Under the provisions of the War Risk Insurance act all soldiers, who are 10 per cent disabled from causes suffered in the line of duty, are entitled to compensation and to treatment by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. Any man disabled in the service and discharged from the service may make application for treatment to the Public Health Service station in his home town or at the nearest station. If immediate treatment is necessary, it will be administered by the Public Health Service. If the need for treatment is not immediate, the case will be reviewed by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance and assigned to a hospital.

Men who after discharge develop physical disabilities attributable to military service are entitled to treatment. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance may be called upon to care for more than 25,000 cases of men discharged for tubercular tendencies, it was announced.

TOLL-ROADS WILL BE ELIMINATED

Two Years will See Last Gate Banished from Pennsylvania Highways.

Of the 178 miles of toll-road in Pennsylvania, twelve and a half miles are in Adams County and the plans of the Highway Department call for its elimination within two years if the county will unite with the State in buying these sections. An appropriation of a half million dollars is now available to buy these turnpikes still in operation in the State.

Since the movement to abolish the toll-road was started with a state appropriation in 1913, 364.57 miles of highway have been freed from the toll-gate, at a total cost of $1,321,119.57.

Twenty seven miles of Adams County toll-roads were taken over by the State in October, 1914, at a cost of $35,000 and three more miles in November, 1918 at a cost of $4,795.65. Automobiles are looking forward to the time when the inconvenience of the toll-road will no longer exist in Pennsylvania.

Our Store will be a Style Show from now until Easter

Yes, indeed, a veritable style show, unfettered by war's necessary demand of self-denial. Style tips filtered in from Paris quite regularly long before the armistice was signed—Paris that, with the Allies winning, was beginning to be herself again. London, too, was reviving and again impressing her ideas upon designers. New York and Cleveland, characteristically American, were profiting by the recrudescence abroad and working independently as well. Makers turned from war-time limitations to designing again for peace-time possibilities.

Our Stock Reflects All This

It is an extensive stock—exhibiting a variety of fabric and of styling in excess of what might be expected following a season of admitted cloth shortage. But come and see. Like values are probably not to be had in Gettysburg. With our knowledge of recent manufacturing difficulties we feel safe in saying that our prices are quite exceptional.

PLANS TO KEEP WORKERS BUSY

Secretary Baker Explains War Contract Adjustments.

(Plans for an adjustment of the industrial situation which will complete the shift from war-time to peace-time requirements with the least possible inconvenience to manufacturers or wage-earners are here discussed by Secretary of War Baker. Mr. Baker's explanations are most reassuring and indicate why there need be no hesitancy on the part of employer or employee in giving the utmost support to the Victory Loan. Here is the outlook from Mr. Baker's viewpoint.)

By NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

When the armistice was signed on the 11th of November there were outstanding some seven billions of dollars of contracts in the War Department. The signing of the armistice made it, of course, obvious that a very large part of the war material thus under contract would not be needed, and the first question which the war department had to face was that of the cancellation of those contracts.

It was clear that if we simply took a knife and cut off all the manufacturing facilities that were engaged in work for the War Department, sharply on the 11th day of November, we would close factories in every state and city of the Union, which would throw thousands of workmen out of employment; and, therefore, that it was imperative that a reasonable time be provided for those industries to reorganize themselves on a peace basis. Therefore, a plan was devised by which, as the first step, we cut off overtime employment so as to reduce production without producing disorganization. The next step was to view this vast mass of contracts in an effort to find out how far the military necessities of the country would permit them to be reduced and how rapidly they might be reduced.

We have so far suspended operation upon contracts which would have cost five billion eight hundred and twenty-nine millions of dollars to complete; so that in the matter of saving, the War Department has suspended operations under contracts or has determined to cancel contracts which, in net effect, covered production to the extent of $5,800,000,000 of war materials.

That does not mean, of course, that that entire sum will be saved. It is involved in something over 19,000 separate contracts, and of those contracts we have already settled 4000, effecting a saving to the Government on the 4000 already settled of $151,000,000, while paying to the contractors, who still had some equity in the matter of new facilities created or materials in process of manufacture, the sum of $29,000,000.

The hope of the War Department is that, without disorganizing industry, without turning workers into the street, without congesting the labor market, and thereby disorganizing the industrial situation, we will be able to save a very large part of this total of nearly $6,000,000,000 involved in contracts for the production of war materials.

Obviously, with 19,000 contracts to readjust or cancel, either in whole or in part, it would have taken more than a lifetime, if we had undertaken by some central bureau here in Washington to review each contract separately and make a special determination about it.

So, instead of that, district boards have been established all through the country in the various bureaus of the War Department dealing with war supplies, so that a manufacturer in any city, whether of ordinance or quarter master material does not have to come to Washington for adjustment of his contract. He goes to the local district board.

If he and the district board can agree upon the terms of the cancellation or modification of the contract that agreement is written in the form of a recommendation and sent down to Washington for the Board of Claims, and is here passed upon by the Board of Claims of the bureau or division of Ordnance, Quartermaster, Signal Corps, or whatever it may be. Now, if they cannot agree there is an other agency set up in Washington, known as the Board of Contract Adjustment, composed of three eminent men. So the contractor does not have to take the judgment of the local district board, but he can lay his matters before a disinterested tribunal here in Washington. Of course, he does not have to accept the decision of the Board of Contract Adjustment. If he prefers he can go to the Court of Claims and start litigation which is, however, always unfortunate, because of the length of time it takes; but that remedy is not closed to him.

We have had this thought in mind from the beginning, that the most important thing the War Department could do, so far as industry and commerce are concerned, is to bring about a speedy adjustment of these claims, in order that the people of this country who are engaged in industry and commerce may know exactly what they can expect in the way of payment from the Government, just how much they can rely upon in opening up their new business or reorganizing business, and to speedily set about doing it.

Worth It.
